

D.S. Johnson, Beautiful swimmers attack at low tide, Ecology

Video S1 Legend

Videos recording blue crab behavior in salt marsh at low tide. These videos were taken at low tide on 28 September 2021 in Painter, Virginia. I used action cameras (SJCam (SJCam Limited, Shenzhen, China,) and Campak (Campak Inc., Livingston, New Jersey, USA) attached to PVC poles 0.5–1.5 m above the sediment surface primarily in the denuded zones because it was easier to see the crabs without plants. It was a warm (29°C at noon), sunny day.

Some video segments have been edited in the following ways to highlight behaviors: zooming in, slow-motion, and red arrows. Video has been reduced from original resolution to reduce file size.
